ENGLISH: write a description by learning
from C.S.Lewis

WALT: break down the structure of a text.

Re-read the extract from The Lion, The Witch and the Wardrobe

Work out what happens in each section of text and the skills the author is using to make the story so powerful. Record them on the worksheet.

MATHS

WALT: multiply 3 digits by 2 digits.

Watch the video then have a go at the work in the booklet.

There will be a class maths zoom at 9:30.
Please watch the video and do your morning maths first.

Reading:

We are going to carry on reading Matilda this week. I have chosen a description of the formidable Miss Trunchbull for us to study in detail.

Today, I have selected five words from the text. Can you find out what they mean?
Join the zoom at 10:30 and we will work together to enjoy and learn from this wonderful story.

How does C.S. Lewis create the vivid images in the story? Work out what is happening in the story in basic terms and how C.S. Lewis gets the exciting, mysterious effect.

Section	What is happening in the story?	How does C.S. Lewis do it?
Looking into the inside, she saw several coats hanging up — mostly long fur coats. There was nothing Lucy liked so much as the smell and feel of fur. She immediately stepped into the wardrobe and got in among the coats and rubbed her face against them.
It was almost quite dark in there and she kept her arms stretched out in front of her so as not to bump her face into the back of the wardrobe. She took a step further in — then two or three steps always expecting to feel woodwork against the tips of her fingers. But she could not feel it.

“This must be a simply enormous wardrobe!” thought Lucy, going still further in and pushing the soft folds of the coats aside to make room for her.
Then she noticed that there was something crunching under her feet. “I wonder is that more mothballs?” she thought, stooping down to feel it with her hand. But instead of feeling the hard, smooth wood of the floor of the wardrobe, she felt something soft and powdery and extremely cold.
Next moment she found that what was rubbing against her face and hands was no longer soft fur but something hard and rough and even prickly.

“Why, it is just like branches of trees!” exclaimed Lucy
And then she saw that there was a light ahead of her; not a few inches away where the back of the wardrobe ought to have been, but a long way off. Something cold and soft was falling on her.
A moment later she found that she was standing in the middle of a wood at night-time with snow under her feet and snowflakes falling through the air.

Reading

Miss Trunchbull, the Headmistress, was something else altogether. She was a gigantic holy terror, a fierce tyrannical monster who frightened the life out of the pupils and teachers alike. There was an aura of menace about her even at a distance, and when she came up close you could almost feel the dangerous heat radiating from her as from a red-hot rod of metal. When she marched – Miss Trunchbull never walked, she always marched like a storm-trooper with long strides and arms aswinging – when she marched along a corridor you could actually hear her snorting as she went, and if a group of children happened to be in her path, she ploughed right on through them like a tank, with small people bouncing off her to left and right. Thank goodness we don't meet many people like her in this world, although they do exist and all of us are likely to come across at least one of them in a lifetime. If you ever do, you should behave as you would if you met an enraged rhinoceros out in the bush – climb up the nearest tree and stay there until it has gone away. This woman, in all her eccentricities and in her appearance, is almost impossible to describe, but I shall make some

Now most head teachers are chosen because they possess a number of fine qualities. They understand children and they have the children's best interests at heart. They are sympathetic. They are fair and they are deeply interested in education. Miss Trunchbull possessed none of these qualities and how she ever got her present job was a mystery.

She was above all a most formidable female. She had once been a famous athlete, and even now the muscles were still clearly in evidence. You could see them in the bull-neck, in the big shoulders, in the thick arms, in the sinewy wrists and in the powerful legs. Looking at her, you got the feeling that this was someone who could bend iron bars and tear telephone directories in half. Her face, I'm afraid, was neither a thing of beauty nor a joy for ever. She had an obstinate chin, a cruel mouth and small arrogant eyes. And as for her clothes . . . they were, to say the least, extremely odd. She always had on a brown cotton smock which was pinched in around the waist with a wide leather belt. The belt was fastened in front with an enormous silver buckle. The massive thighs which emerged from out of the smock were encased in a pair of extraordinary breeches, bottle-green in colour and made of coarse twill. These breeches reached to just below the knees and from there on down she sported green stockings with turn-up tops, which displayed her calf muscles to perfection. On her feet she wore flat-heeled brown brogues with leather flaps. She looked, in short, more like a rather eccentric and bloodthirsty follower of the stag-hounds than the headmistress of a nice school for children.

Write opening paragraph to descriptive story

The firsts paragraph in this section by C.S.Lewis is this:

Looking into the inside, she saw several coats hanging up — mostly long fur coats. There was nothing Lucy liked so much as the smell and feel of fur. She immediately stepped into the wardrobe and got in among the coats and rubbed her face against them.

There are only two sentences here but the image is powerful because the character uses her senses to interact with the setting.

Write your first paragraph- when your character looks in and then steps into the portal for the first time.

English: Today we are going to write a concluding paragraph for our story- the big reveal when we will show the reader exactly where the character is now.

Then we are going to write up the story using our neatest writing and our finest punctuation and grammar.

Writing a big reveal paragraph

This is what C.S.Lewis wrote:

A moment later she found that she was standing in the middle of a wood at night-time with snow under her feet and snowflakes falling through the air

It is a single sentence with a great deal of information. Suddenly the reader knows what the two mysterious things in the wardrobe were- the powdery cold stuff was snow and the prickly things were the branches of trees.

Write your own sentence starting with A moment later,

Now read through your whole story- starting with your work from Wednesday, then Thursday and finally, the paragraph you've just written.

Your final job is to write this up in your best writing. Make any improvements you want to as you go and push yourself for top quality spelling and punctuation.
